

Morgan Hill 'Art & Inspiration' Utility Box Art Program - Phase 2 Program Information and Call to Artists

The City of Morgan Hill's Library Culture and Arts Commission is continuing with phase 2 of the unique Utility Box Art Program, 'Art & Inspiration'. It is created with a goal to connect with the community through uplifting and inspirational messages that are interpreted through original creative art on utility boxes by local artists. This is different from every other (known) utility box project in other cities.

Phase 1 was executed in 2018 as a class project for the Leadership Morgan Hill Class of 2018 where eleven (11) boxes were completed in a variety of art styles.

The Library Culture and Arts Commission intends to complete up to 5 additional boxes each year. Project costs will be funded entirely through sponsorships and donations from local businesses, non-profit organizations and individuals. Community members can be involved through proposing artwork or sponsoring the program with donations.

Call to Artists for Art & Inspiration Phase II (2020)

Calling all artists from the south County area (first preference will be given to local artists)!

The City of Morgan Hill and the Library Culture and Art Commission are seeking local artists to submit their designs for original art interpreting an uplifting and inspirational message. Artists will be required to come up with both the message and art. For complete information on project visit www.mhpublicart.com.

Application live on: February 1, 2020
